HIGH PERFORMANCE FOOTWEAR

Business of government in PNG like a jute box in a tavern

- Quit while you're ahead. All the best gamblers do. A fine retreat matters as much as a stylish attack. As soon as they are enough - even when they are many - cash in your deeds. A long run of good fortune is always suspicious. You're safer when good luck alternates with bad, and, besides, that makes for bittersweet enjoyment. When luck comes racing in on us, it is more likely to slip and smash everything to pieces. Sometimes, Lady Luck compensates us, trading intensity for duration. She grows tired when she has to carry someone on her back for a long time."

The above was not written with the Prime Minister of Papua New Guinea, Sir Michael Thomas Somare in mind.

It was written some 400 years ago in Spain by a Jesuit scholar, a Father Baltasar Grecian in his Pocket Oracle, "The Art of Worldly Wisdom", Doubleday (1992).

However, reading it now, you could be mistaken to think that it was meant for the Prime Minister Sir Michael Somare.

We have a system of government in PNG called the Westminster system, where the head of a government must accept responsibility for the collective wrongs of a government of the day. When Sir Michael sacked Dr. Allan Marat, he said it on the EM TV evening news, that in a Westminster system of government, like that which we have here in PNG, Cabinet solidarity is a must and where a minister goes public and questions a cabinet decision, then he as the PM must take appropriate action to protect that principle of cabinet solidarity.

Thus, Allan Marat was told by an angry Prime Minister that he could not sit in on a government caucus meeting for that morning even though Dr. Marat was at that point in time, still a cabinet minister holding the Justice portfolio.

In the like manner, Sir Michael must accept responsibility for all the wrong things that this government has done since coming into power. The biggest assault on the people of this country is the manner in which the government has gone about to amend the National Constitution. Overnight and without consultation with the people and a decent parliamentary debate, we saw the Leadership Code thrown out the window after Maladina did a cut and paste job with Sections 27, 28 and 29 of the Constitution.

Thus, with the original powers of the Ombudsman Commission gone, the Commission is now like a lame duck and all it is capable of doing right now is to croak, 'quack, quack' all night, but the honourable members of parliament can no longer be disturbed from their slumber, content with the business takings for that day.

We have said it in this column and we repeat here that the proposed amendments to the Organic Law on Duties and Responsibilities of Leaders is only a minor portion or an incidental aspect of the total amendment package proposed by Maladina and his colleagues to water down and render obsolete, the powers of the Commission.

These are mostly procedural aspects of the Leadership Code. Thus, in our view, Maladina had already accomplished what he had set out to do with parliament having passed the constitutional amendments.

What we ought to do now is to get the parliament to revisit the issue and that way, have the original powers of the Commission restored and further, the parliament must withdraw the proposed amendments to the above named Organic Law. If we can achieve this end, then we can say we have returned to the status quo. Right now, we are neither here nor there; we are everywhere, but nowhere near our target. We must focus on concrete achievement and not be content with promises by these politicians that they will take time to consider our views.

The problem we are now faced with in this country, is that there are no longer any rules and procedures to govern the conduct of government business. Letters sent to government departments do not get answered; telephones will ring until the line is engaged; and any personal visits to the department is a flop, because you will be told that the person to answer your query did not come to work for the day. Whatever system we adopted from the Australians simply does not work anymore.

This government alone has produced and launched a number of plans or strategies for social and economic development in the country. To name a few, the National Agricultural Development Plan (NADP), the Medium Term Development Strategy, the Millennium Development Plan and the like.

Overnight we even dreamt up one called, the Green Revolution where we were supposed to ferry coffee beans down from Tapini and Kokoda down to Port Moresby by the Defence Force and their Arava aircraft.

However, beyond the formulation, the presentation and the cocktail parties that followed, we hear nothing of the so many plans that we have come up with over the years.

The only cargo we ever ferried with our Arava Craft was Moti to the Solomons and not coffee beans from Tapini or Kokoda to Port Moresby.

There are far too many cabinet submissions now being considered for funding by the government especially now that the election fever is heating up. Let us take the cabinet submission by Peter O'Neill for public service housing for which K50 million was set aside and placed in a bank account with the Bank of South Pacific. Is that K50 million still sitting in BSP, or has it disappeared? And what about the police housing for which we heard another hefty sum was allocated? Take a look at the Gordons Police Barracks where our policemen live and work. It is a totally run down barracks with water and sewerage gushing out and at times onto the street across from the Gordons Secondary School.

If you look closely when you drive past the school, you will notice that the policemen and their families have vacated the dilapidated houses and have set up little sheds made of canvas and rusty pieces of iron sheets around the yard and some of them are actually living in these tin sheds. We suggest that the Police Commissioner, Gary Baki and his police minister should take a day off to visit the Gordons Police Barracks and do something about it.

Now getting back to the manner in which this country is being run, one thing that is very obvious is that each government department does its own piece of action, or gets a slice of the national cake, unfortunately not as part of a coordinated and comprehensive action-based national plan approved by the government. The active ministers like Don Polye and Gabriel Kapris get their own work plans approved and funds are allocated, while the rest of the ministers spend their time in limbo driving around Port Moresby in heavily tinted land cruisers.

One of our main problems with all these high sounding plans for social and economic development in this country is that the plans are formulated solely as a paper exercise by people who have very little knowledge of what is happening on the ground. Planning, if formulated for its conceptual value, is basically a statement of policy, but where planning is action-based, then the major characteristic of the plan will be the various projects designed for implementation with certain objectives in mind. Anything in the nature of what this government gave us as the Medium Term Development Strategy is plain hotchpotch. The people who wrote this so called 'strategy' cannot even speak English.

It is all mumbo-jumbo with high sounding phrases which mean nothing of essence but words and plenty of words.

It cannot be such a mammoth task to plan for six million people, most of whom live in the rural areas. The basic services to provide are village clinics or health centres, schools, good all weather roads, rural police stations and a workable court system from the village court to the local and the district courts and in particular the land courts. We had these systems set up in the past, but we never devised an effective administrative system to keep these institutions functioning. We set them up and after 6 to 9 months the system comes to a halt and becomes non-functioning for various reasons. Obviously, we have never heard of an effective administrative system which is functioning and self sustaining as an administrative unit within the whole umbrella of government institutions.

Right now the entire institution of government has collapsed and machinery of public administration has come to a standstill. We have lost the political will to maintain a responsible government to make good decisions for the wellbeing of the people. What holds the system in place in a country like England, America and Australia is the rule of law characterized by the notion of fair play under an impartial setting where there are established rules and procedures in place with inbuilt checks and balances to keep the institution of government alive and the machinery of public administration functioning. The entire public service we have is like one big retirement home for our civil servants because the minister and his associates are now interfering into the day to day administration of each Department or statutory corporation.

In this country the rule of law (under which everyone has a chance to survive under a fair system of government) has been replaced by the rule of the jungle where the governing principle is "survival of the fittest". The effect of this is that the bulk of the population which is rural and land-based are deprived of the basic services for survival. These people are now flooding into Port Moresby and Lae and all the major towns and cities. Even our members of parliament have left their own districts and towns and have taken up residence in hotels in and around Port Moresby. One classic example is the Gulf Provincial Government.

And the worst part of it all is that the business of government in this country operates like a jute box in a tavern or a saloon bar. In order to get the jute box to play your personal selection of music, you have to slot in a 20t coin and then press a button and the jute box comes alive playing your music.

The present government in PNG under the National Alliance Party operates under the same principle as the jute box.

If you have the money, then you can get the machinery of government to spin into action to dance to your tune, whereas, if you do not have the money then you cannot partake in the business of government, just like you cannot play that jute box.

This government is only for the people with money, and plenty of it. It looks as if the National Alliance Party has stretched the user-pay policy a little too far and totally out of context.

Finally, we started this column with advice from a good old Jesuit priest 400 years ago, so it is fitting that we close with one more piece of worldly advice from him, thus:-

"No. 111 - DON'T BE A SETTING SUN."

It is a maxim of prudent people to abandon things before being abandoned by them. You should make even your end into a triumph. At times the sun itself retires behind a cloud so that no one will see it fall, and it leaves us wondering whether it has set or not. Avoid sunsets so as not to burst with misfortune. Don't wait for people to turn their shoulders on you: they will bury you alive to your regret, dead or renown. The prudent knows when to retire a race horse, and do not wait for him to collapse in the middle of the race, to the laughter of all. Let Beauty shatter the mirror cleverly, at the right time, and not to late when she cannot bear the truth."
