"Kaunim Mi na mekem Plen bilong Mi"

Does God want to play dice with Man?

"Without time, without space. Without matter or energy. This is the beginning of the universe, and there is nothing - Not even a point, not even a void.

Out of nothingness there arises a stir - an eddy, a flicker, a something inconceivably small. And with that something, as part of it, time, space and other wonders come spontaneously into being. The lid of Pandora's cosmic box has begun to lift and from beneath it issue all the marvels of creation.

Yet by whose hand has that lid been set ajar? And if the answer is "No one's," then how is the magic of genesis performed?

From David Darling, "Deep Time", Banham Books (1989).

THIS is an amazing description of an event out of space and out of time. Yes, "out of nothingness" and from within a void, devoid of time, space and matter "something" moves and hence brings forthwith the wonders of life.

Thus, in this one line, a single line of feeble words, we make the bold attempt to tell a tale of something that has no beginning and no end. Will mankind ever get to find out what really happened?

Genesis tells us that "in the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters".

Genesis is not an easy book to reconcile with the scientific definition of how the universe came into being. Firstly, we cannot be sure as to whether Genesis tells us a literal account of what took place. It is said that the Book of Genesis is written in symbols; a symbolic version of a metaphysical phenomenon that gave rise to the birth of creation. If we follow this line then it is possible that the Hebrew Language must hold the key to the mysteries embodied in the way Genesis describes the phenomenon.

Science on the other hand is not much of a help either. Science and its attempts to describe creation is basically an attempt to go backward in time from looking at available evidence to suggest what it might have been at that split point in time before creation and then what might have happened at that point of creation. But with advances in science, it is now getting to a point where slowly science is starting to concede viewpoints long held by established religions around the world like Buddhism, Hinduism and Christianity.

Life is a wonder of wonders. And in our bold attempt to define that which is undefinable, we make the first mistake to assume the role of a witness to the great event as if we were there and watched it unfold. Thus, we go about in our feeble attempts to state in words, that which defies words, and as we toil and have access to that information. That knowledge is the prerogative of the Creator. Thus, if Jesus is not privy to that information, then how come our local prophets are so knowledgeable about that event?

And again from passages elsewhere Jesus told us that there will be a sign or signs in the sky foretelling the coming of the Son of Man. There will be a sign in the sky announcing that life here on earth is coming to a close. But even before that happens, there will be lots of prophets of doom and gloom and other false prophets working miracles and preaching in his name. And he warned us to stay where we are and not move when the time comes.

Man in his attempts to read the mind of God has made numerous attempts to enquire as to the pending disaster that will eliminate this world and evidence of such enquiry is recorded in numerous places like the Pyramids of Egypt, the calendars of the South American civilization of Maya and the likes. And the only message to be gleaned from these is the direction that we must focus our attention to the sky because the signs will be broadcast, as it were, from the sky. What would the sign be, is the question.

And as we sit here on this piece of the greater earth, we dream that our piece of the earth must be the centre of the whole of creation and we are forgiven to think that we must have the monopoly on God's time and space. We forget that even Einstein told us that God does not play dice with Man.

That is, God does not play a game of chances. You will not see God standing before the poker machine at Lamana Gold Club supporting a glass of whiskey with his left hand and with the right hand punching the numbered dials on that machine. That kind of folly is the prerogative of Man and not God.

So how do we describe the turbulent elements now invading the earth? Are these signals that the end may be drawing close to making its appearance? Or is it possible that God is about to show his face?

We said earlier that after creation God surveyed his handiworks and "saw that it was good". We can take it from these words that there was divine satisfaction in the nature and content of creation. We can also take it that God must have blessed his creation because he looked upon it with satisfaction.

Thus, we are reminded time and time again that God is not that impersonal being sitting on his throne somewhere up in the sky and spying on man and recording all his misdeeds and planning to rain down hell on man for his neurotic behaviour on earth as if God has nothing better to do. We are reminded that from time immemorial, God dwelled with man and walked hand in hand, conversed with man and ordered instant punishment to man for any disobedience. God never said, "I will wait until you die and try to walk past me. And then I will send you straight to cook in Hell".

So what do we make of the messages of doom and gloom? The Good Lord and Master Jesus said it somewhere that he did know when the world will come to an end. He also said that even the Angels do not earth both his own and that of creatures big and small. God left man in total control as a guardian.

However, God did not then disappear into Heaven telling man that he is now his own boss and wishing man good luck until "thy kingdom come". God gave man the necessary tools to work his way around creation and the splendours of the world and to make his way to God. Thus, God gave man the five (5) senses of sight, touch, feel, smell and hear plus the brain, the mind, free will and the heart to work hand in hand.

Thus, in our attempts to subscribe to the mind of God, we speak and utter words to describe an event, our feelings and our surroundings, but it is said from long times past, that the language of the gods is in symbols and not words. In that sense then, God speaks to man in symbols. And if we push that line of thought a little further, then we can venture the suggestion that God's messages must be every where but in symbols.

So we get back to the question: Is the end drawing closer? Let him who wishes to play dice with God tell us if that is so or not so. The most obvious answer is "We do not know and cannot tell. Why should we know, anyway? It is not for us to know that which God has hidden. Let him who has the temerity or the audacity to "unravel" that which God has hidden from mankind and Angels alike.

And as we sit here on this piece of the greater earth, we dream that our piece of the earth must be the centre of the whole of creation and we are forgiven to think that we must have the monopoly on God's time and space. We forget that even Einstein told us that God does not play a game of chances. You will not see God standing before the poker machine at Lamana Gold Club supporting a glass of whiskey with his left hand and with the right hand punching the numbered dials on that machine. That kind of folly is the prerogative of Man and not God.

The original Australians tell us that creation is God's dreaming. And we mankind and the world at large are subjects of this dreams. And like all dreams, the dreaming must stop and reality must set in to usher in a world where the essence of all must be made bare and a new Jerusalem appears to encompass all that which is. When is the big question?

Thus, let us stop that clock, unwind it to the original state of nothingness and live in the eternal now without that flicker, that eddy or the stir which burst forth this world of illusion and delusion. Mankind alone does not have a monopoly on God's grace which now as ever permeates his creation, but God's grace is in abundance and is there for him who seeks out God and his salvation. The only question remains: How does one recognize God's grace to heed to God's call to follow him?

Training begins for main enumeration

THE National Census Office (NSO) has begun the most crucial and final of three important preparation components in the lead up actual census week from the 11th to the 17th July.

That is the Enumeration Training Phase involving workers who will eventually visit every Household in the country and make contract with the people.

The other two components have been the Census Recruitment and Training Plan followed by the Operational Training Plan. Work on these two began in Mid February and successfully completed as scheduled in May.

The final phase is a Three Tier Training Strategy beginning with Master Trainers. That started in Port Moresby yesterday and will end on Friday. About 60 personnel are undergoing this training, 30 NSO staff and other sponsored participants from the Provinces.

This level of training by NSO's Research and Development Branch is to prepare all Census Field Personnel on the procedures and techniques to ensure that the demographics collected are of high quality.

It is intended that the Training of the Master Trainers will be through and completed in every detail, covering the whole Census exercise.

In welcoming them yesterday, the Director of NSO, Mrs. Hajily Kele told the participants, "you will be proud that what you acquire during the training will go a long way in terms of producing quality data that will guide PNG in making evidence based decisions for development".

This knowledge acquired includes understanding of the Census manual, details of the questionnaire forms and identifying knowledgeable Census interviewers and supervisors to conduct the Census.

In Opening the Masters Trainers Training, the National Statistician, Mr. Joseph Aka, said a lot of importance is placed on them to transfer knowledge and skills right down to the interviewers and supervisors.

"I urge the facilitators and participants to take this training seriously because quality training will pave the way for quality data collection and that is what we all need at the end of the day", Mr. Aka said.

Master Trainers will return to their respective centres and train Provincial Trainers at the Census Operational Centres from the 13th – 17th June.

This level of training will be simultaneous across the country where participants will go through the interviewer's manual, the supervisor/QC manual and other practical sessions on all aspects of the Census.

The final of the Three Tier Training Strategy will be the Training of enumerators and supervisors/quality controllers.

That will also be conducted simultaneously at the LLG levels throughout the country from the 27th June to 1st July.

At the end of all this training, some 35,000 interviewers and supervisor/quality controllers will be primed to begin one of the most important National Events in the Country, the 2011 National Population and Housing Census.

		In each episode an everyday Australian will embark on a powerful journey retracing a close ancestor's intense wartime experience. Tommy Johnson was an ordinary man who had an extraordinary war. For nearly 70 years, his family never really knew what happened to Tommy - a remarkable story of endurance and mateship, of courage and cruelty. Now, his great niece, Julie Bryce, will discover the truth.							9.00PM	G	MILLION DOLLAR DROP (final)	7.00PM	G NATIONAL EMTV NEWS
