Where have we gone wrong in PNG?

IN THIS column last week we concluded our comments on this government's degree of incompetence as follows:-

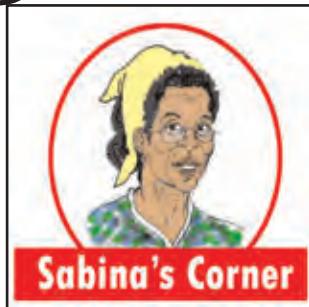

"And worst of all, there is no discipline in this country. Whilst the police in uniform are out on the road drunk and terrorizing innocent people, the CIS Officers will accept bribes from prisoners and organize for their escapes; the members of the Defence Force will be drunk and disorderly in public places and smashing down private properties like the recent Manu Autoport incident; and the Land Transport Brigade will be out in force at peak traffic hours holding up traffic unnecessarily simply to collect their tips from drivers who offend against traffic rules. This is the system we now have in this country and that is how it operates on a day to day basis. It is every man and his dog for himself."

And speaking of lack of discipline in what we do as a government, take the case of the forest industry in this country, for instance. Nobody in government makes an effort to know about the illegal logging practices in this country conducted by the biggest Malaysian logging company in the country. The only people who know about the unethical business practices of the Malaysian owners, and their business associates in PNG, are the people in the National Forest Authority (NFA). And yet the NFA will do nothing to take this company and its owners to task. Instead the NFA executives, including the Ministers, would rather wine, dine and dance with these crooked company executives.

Our socio-political and economic system in this country is highly fragmented, lacks cohesion and is totally dysfunctional. The institution of state and the machinery of government are simply not performing, both at that structural level and likewise at that functional level. At the structural level, the institution of state has become too big, too cumbersome, and lacks the common denominator to see itself as a single system with a multitude of workable units serving a common goal. Thus, structurally, we are over extended with too much duplication of functions but also highly constricted and there is no lamp post to guide the system in a single and orderly direction.

Meanwhile at the functional level, the machinery of government is a blunder upon a blunder. It is a multiplicity of dysfunctional units loosely held together in place and forced to throttle at a snail's pace without any sense of direction, control and vitality. Firstly, the formal system at the structural level is too big and cumbersome and at the operational level, the engine is not designed and geared to move the complex and totally ineffective structure.

The end result is stagnation.

People in government do not work anymore.

In order to function effectively, both systems must be synchronized to operate like the complex wheels and dials in a clock, which must function as a single unit to maintain the correct time. This country is now like an old car dumped on the side of the road because its engine had ceased. Even trying to push start it will not do. We require a new car with a new engine and a new driver and a new mechanic.

If Sam Abal is serious about getting this country to reorder itself into a viable parliamentary democracy with a constitutional government that is both structurally and functionally sound and productive, then there are a number of critical steps which he must now undertake and they include the following:-

1. Reduce the size of the institution of state and stately functions. Abolish provincial governments and local level governments. Revert to the original Local Government Council System and reactivate the old klap system of regular government patrols accompanied by visiting magistrates, and the agricultural extension officers.

The provincial government system is a costly duplication of functions which serves no useful end, other than a means of living for people.

2. Centralize legal and administrative powers and functions and revamp the disciplinary regimes so that the system can police itself. Thus with centralization achieved, we must down-size the machinery of government by reducing the various departments, and statutory institutions, and place them under small and workable units like parliamentary committees.

3. To ensure centralized administrative control, we must deregister many statutory corporations like the National Forest Authority and return it to the Department of Forests where the Head of the Department is still answerable to the central government and the national parliament, and not to the Board of Directors of puppets and dummies susceptible to accepting bribes from illegal logging operators.

4. Issue political directives to police and other law enforcement agencies like the law courts and tell them to function within the spirit of the law without over-exerting themselves and thereby creating a diversion off from the law. They should be told to keep their personal views as far away as possible from the impersonality of the law. There is far too much justice and not enough law enforcement in this country.

5. The type of diversion we are talking about are the obvious cases where the judges of the national court will over step their boundaries and grant injunctions to stop the criminal justice machinery from its routine operations or functions, and in the areas of employment contracts, these judges should not readily order reinstatement where the employment contract is one of service and not for service. We should not allow our courts to be used by litigants to solve disputes which are not strictly legal disputes raising legal issues.

6. And most importantly, we must arrest control away from the Executive Arm of government and allow the National Parliament to remain supreme and independent of executive control. More and more, we must use parliamentary committees to oversee the running of all government Departments and other public institutions. Presently, the executive with their majority in government uses parliament for their private political agenda, so that the rest of the members of parliament are made to look like spectators sitting idle in the public gallery.

What this country needs is a comprehensive structural reform coupled with an exercise in down-sizing the administrative machinery of government with a strong sense of discipline, control, and purpose. This is where political leadership is paramount, because it will provide the necessary impetus to stir the institution of state and the machinery of government to function as a whole for the common benefit and for the welfare of the people at large.

However, despite all the structural and functional changes that we must make, we must be mindful of the role played by the human factor in any systems. A system, whatever it is, is only as good as the individual persons who man the system in order to make it work.

Presently, we have far too many thieves and scoundrels running our various government institutions who are bleeding the system dry.

We have far too many slugs using the system for their personal, political and economic gains.

At the global level, Papua New Guinea is considered a failed State, and there is little we can say in our defence. We are in fact a failed State for all purposes. This is the result of the obvious lack of the necessary qualification for healthy statehood. The international legal criteria for statehood under Article 1 of the Montevideo Convention on Rights and Duties of States (signed December 26, 1933) provides as follows: "The State as a person of international law, should possess the following qualifications: (a) a permanent population; (b) a defined territory; (c) government; and (d) capacity to enter into relations with other States."

As for condition (a), it would appear outwardly that we do have a permanent population, but as to whether it is a stable community of people is open to doubt. At best we are a conglomerate of individual groups of highly unstable people open to explosive behaviour and criminal tendency akin to the conduct of wild animals fenced into a zoo for taming purposes. We may pass conditions (b) and (d) because these are rather impersonal criteria with little to nil relevance on our highly erratic behavioural patterns.

Outwardly, we do appear to have a defined territory under (b) and under (d) we do have the capacity to deal with other States.

However, come to condition (c) "government" is interpreted by international jurists to mean "effective" government and this is where we have failed very badly. The shortest definition of a State under international law is a reasonably stable political community supporting a working legal and administrative order characterized by an effective government with centralized administrative and legal powers. We simply do not have a "working" legal and administrative order characterized by an "effective" government in place. This is why they call us a failed State, and in fact, we are a failed State if we go strictly by the international law definition of a State.

What we have is a socio-political system of highly fractionalized and fragmented body of institutions which lack cohesion and are totally dysfunctional. Outwardly, they give the impression that they are operational but inwardly what gives them the false impression of mobility is their ability to feed off bribery and corruption to maintain the false momentum.

You take bribery and corruption away and the system will come to a complete halt like the old car discarded on the road side because its engine had ceased.

Self interest is what keeps the institution of state and the machinery of government trudging along at paces determined by the amount of bribery and corruption money involved.

The more the bribe money, the faster the engine turns in favour of the one dangling the biggest carrot.

MINISTER ANNOUNCES PROGRESSIVE DETAILS ON CENSUS

The Minister for National Planning and Rural Development, Hon. Paul Tiensten has given details of lead up work carried out so far and what more needs to be done, to successfully conduct and complete the National Population and Housing Census.

Hon. Tiensten's portfolio covers the Census.

With three weeks to the actual enumeration week, Hon. Tiensten said, "as Minister responsible for NSO, I would like to inform the public and the Government that (the) 2011 Census is on schedule and NSO is ready to deliver on the census night which is 10 July."

The lead up activities accomplished so far include:-

- The update and completion of the Census unit register, 37,000 workloads have been created in February through to May, 2011.
- Training of Master Trainers in Port Moresby from the end of May to early June.
- Conduct and completion of Provincial Trainings from the 13th – 17th June.
- All census materials and supplies dispatched to all the Provinces and o to Local Level Governments, to train LLG trainers and the subsequent training of Interviewers. This will be on the first week of July in preparation for the main enumeration.
- 10th July has been set as the Census night.
- The main Census from the 11th – 17th July, 2011.
- The Census mop up exercise to be conducted straight after the main Census from the 27th July to 30th August.
- Completed Census Forms from NSO HQ from 1st August to 30th September, in time for the Data processing phase which starts from August to the end of December, 2011. Preliminary results will be released in February 2012 and the final results out in June 2012.
- Analysis and compilation of report from July 2012 to July 2013 and dissemination from July 2013 to August 2013.

In releasing these details, the Minister also expressed anxiety over timely completion of activities outside the control of NSO.

This is mainly to do with funds.

Honorable Tiensten noted that the Census funds are parked in the Integrated Financial Management System (IFMS) and controlled entirely by the Finance Department, therefore, NSO cannot be blamed for delays in processing travel allowances and accommodation for Census workers.

The concern had been brought to the attention of the Ministerial Economic Committee (MEC) a sub-committee of the National Executive council (NEC) and the National Planning Committee (NPC) early this year.

As a result, a clear direction had been issued to Finance and Treasury to appoint a section 32 officer to facilitate NSO requirements but Honorable Tiensten said "to date the Finance Department failed to comply with this directive."

The Government allocated K66 Million this year for the Census. K34 million has been released to pay for activities leading to July. The balance will be used for the actual Census and data processing.

In the 2010 supplementary budget, K10 million was appropriated for the Census and held by the Finance Department.

More than 40,000 interviewers/supervisor quality controllers will be engaged in the Census and another 200 will be recruited as data entry operators.

Hon. Tiensten said the Census preparation is now at a critical phase but activities are progressing as planned and "NSO will deliver".

WANEM taim bai famili bilong Sir Michael Somare i toksave long PNG, sapos em i lusim pinis ples we birua i ken kamap long em gen, na i redi long kam bek long ol pipel bilong em?

Na sapos em i no orait, watpo na ol i no laik toksave kwik long ol pipel na kantri?

Dispela kain askim, wantaim ol arapela askim i stap pinis long save long helt bilong Sir Michael, em i no liklik samting.

Olgeta toksave i wok long lusim Raffles Haus sik long Singapore, em i wok long kamaut long pikinini meri bilong Sir Michael, Betha Somare, na brata bilong em na memba bilong Angoram, Arthur Somare.

Em i kamap klia nau olsem ol i no laik tokaut o soim klia pes bilong Sir Michael yet, na tokaut long kantri, long tru tru sindaun bilong em.

Olsem, na nau, askim i go olsem: 'Em i stap yet, o em i lusim mipela pinis?'

Sapos kantri i ken lukim namba wan praim minista bilong ol, na man planti save kolim 'papa bilong kantri', bai ol i save olsem em i strong yet, na bel bilong ol bai sindaun gut.

Dr John Mua

Dr John Mua is the Managing Director of Motor Vehicles Insurance Limited, which founded the Road Safety: It's Not A Game public awareness campaign.

Long way to the top for PMV drivers

AS all NRL supporters find themselves in the grip and hype of the annual State of Origin period, it shows how quickly the season can come and go. Highly anticipated throughout all of the off season, it is quite amazing how swiftly Game Two has arrived. The same can easily be said about the NRL Grand Final PMV driver competition, one of the most anticipated aspects of the Motor Vehicles Insurance Limited 'Road Safety – It's Not a Game' campaign.

It is now over half way through the qualification period of the PMV driver competition, and according to MVIL figures compiled to the end of May, we have some mixed findings with what I believe to be an overall success to date, especially if registered drivers can continue to concentrate on the remainder of the qualification months.

So we can finish on the positives, lets first of all have a look at some of the negatives results, beginning with one I find to be personally disappointing, purely for the fact that these few drivers should have known better. I am talking about the fact that of the 15 drivers who won the competition and attended last year's Grand Final, four of them have to date been eliminated from the competition in 2011. To say I would have imagined these drivers, above all, to know better is an understatement. There has been no rule stipulating that winning drivers from last year cannot win again, and what a remarkable tale it would be if this were to happen? For these four however, their chances are shot.

Another result that is currently disappointing is seeing that of all the drivers who registered in the Eastern Highlands province, a full 50% of these have at this stage been eliminated. In a province that fared relatively well in last years competition and that this year provided one of the higher numbers of entrants, it shows that collectively the PMV drivers here have perhaps lapsed in concentration or are not taking the nature of the competition seriously. I urge all PMV drivers to remember that in essence this is a competition only second, and more importantly it is an initiative to saves lives first.

Now to the drivers who registered within Moresby and surrounds. It is well known that a full 100% of registered drivers in the NCD were eliminated before competitions end last year, with the surrounding provinces not faring much better. So while we can see that to date there are only 42% of PMV drivers in the NCD still eligible, it is without doubt much improvement upon 2010. Taking into account that over 80% of drivers in the Gulf province and 100% of drivers in the Central province are still eligible, we can see a marked improvement upon last year.

Across many of the other provinces the results to date are an undoubted success. Special congratulatory mention needs to go to the East New Britain, New Ireland, Madang and Enga provinces, who are all tracking at over 90% of drivers still in contention. Many other provinces remain a tick under 90% also, such as West New Britain, Marobe and the Gulf.
