KIKSTATIM DEI WANTAIM

Finally, the bubble has burst

Sabina's Corner

THUS ends the era of wheeling, dealing and spivying. Finally, we find the National Alliance Party sitting on its back-side like an upturned turtle on the beach front. And whom do you blame? Blame yourself, and not the Opposition or the Ministers and the government back-benchers who crossed the floor.

Yes, finally the Opposition has had the last laugh.

However, when you look at the bigger picture, the Opposition did not win by its strength. The Opposition won by default. The Opposition won by using the weakness of the National Alliance Party. Thus, the National Alliance has only to blame itself for the predicament it now finds itself in.

And for Sir Arnold to come out in a press conference to say that his mob is still in government is laughable. Peter O'Neill has already been sworn in as the PM, and Belden Namah is the Deputy, so the country can now move ahead and prepare for the national elections rather than waiting for the National Alliance Party to make up its mind as to whether or not there is a vacancy in the Office of the PM.

Just imagine Sir Arnold saying openly that there is no vacancy in the Office of the PM. You must be out of your mind, Sir Arnold. With Sir Michael still in the hospital in Singapore and with Sam Abal acting in that position, what makes you think there is no vacancy? Of course, there is a vacancy, and has been, ever since the Chief left the Office to enter hospital.

The fact that the Chief has not resigned that post is immaterial.

Given the special circumstances surrounding the matter of the Chief's health, and given that the Chief's family has already announced publicly, per Arthur Somare, that the Chief is not returning, what makes Sir Arnold maintain that there is no vacancy in the post of the PM? We all know there was a vacancy, but not anymore.

Whether for better or for worse, at least the people of this country can now take a deep breath and show some sign of relief and carry on with their affairs. Finally, the mob under the Somare regime have had the rug pulled out from under their feet. What was not acceptable about their prolonged stay in government, was that they were taking the people for granted, whilst they were busy fattening themselves.

Just look at what Paul Tiensten and Rubby Zarriga did in 90 days. They went on a spending spree.

If Mr Tiensten was seriously concerned about helping national businessmen in the airline industry, then why did he not give Robert Agorobe of Helfix another K10 million after giving K10 million to Mr Wartovo who lives in Australia; or better still, why not give Air Niugini K10 million to increase its fleet to access remote areas like his Pomio District?

Well, now at least Sir J has the opportunity to put his money where his mouth is. He can now proceed with his amendments to the Mining and Petroleum Acts to give the local landowners a bigger say in the matter of sharing of benefits derived from mining and petroleum activities. Secondly, the Acts must be amended so that in considering the question of what equity should go to the government and the landowners, proper account can be taken of the fact that these are resources owned by the landowners. Thirdly, in any negotiations for development of these resources, and allocation of equity in the projects, proper account must be taken of the economic value of the known reserves with the view to accommodating that element in determining how much equity must go to the resources owners.

For the last 40 years, we Papua New Guinean landowners have had a raw deal. We had been ignored by successive governments as we watched government ministers wining, dining and doing the tango with these foreign company executives engaged in the exploitation of our resources. Sir J can also champion the cause to repeal that provision of the Environmental Act 2000 passed last year to give the Director of Environment the power to give an open licence to mining and petroleum companies to pollute our land and seas.

We also ask the new government to repeal the Maladina Amendments to the Constitution and the Leadership Code that watered down the powers of the Ombudsman Commission and gave the government and the Departmental Heads a free hand to misuse public funds without any sense of accountability. We notice that Maladina has now found himself with the new government camp. We pray that he will not be given a ministry in this new government. In the Somare camp he showed his true colours as far as the rights of the people are concerned and as far as issues of good governance go.

Well, on a higher note where are we now as a people of a nation of a thousand tribes speaking a thousand languages and immersed in a thousand cultures. Look at us. We have moved at snail's pace for 40 years, and during those 40 years, we have not progressed as a people. And here we are talking about the 80-90% of the population who live in the rural areas. However, the only people who have progressed are politicians and their families and their cronies. They have used and abused the ordinary people.

These few have progressed alright as they live off the proceeds of thieving from the national till. And most of them now live in Australia with their families. One thing that stands out very clearly is that these people's hearts are not here. They have no time for their people. And because they do not live with the people they have no idea how the people live and what their daily problems are. In that event then how are these people able to stand up in parliament and say that they represent the people and can speak for the people? The Leadership Code must be given more teeth. And our Electoral Laws must follow suit so that in order to qualify as a candidate for an electorate, the candidate must show that he has lived in the electorate continuously for at least 3 years immediately preceding his nomination. There are some members of parliament who have never lived in their so called home electorates.

And there is another amendment to the Leadership Code that this government must pass as a law before the national elections. And that is this: Where a member of parliament is accused of misusing his electorate's public funds, the Leadership Tribunal must do a physical inspection of the member's electorate to determine for itself if the given member has done anything positive for his people at large by way of development in the electorate. This would be a real eye opener for the Leadership Tribunal, because if such an inspection is conducted, the Tribunal would in most cases, find out for itself that the member has done nothing in the electorate.

Since we are talking about government and the conduct of politicians who are supposed to represent the public interest, let us say that what we are now lacking is a meaningful dialogue between the common people, their political leaders, their religious leaders and the private business sector. So far the government spends a lot of time talking about the public-private-sector-partnership, but we have yet to hear someone mention where the ordinary people and their religious leaders come into the picture.

Let us picture a typical village in a remote area like Garaina, Nomads Area in the Western Province or Telefomin in the border region between Sepik and Tabubil.

In these remote villages there is no government presence. In these remote villages the only people who live in their midst are their church leaders. The Christian Churches are the only ones who know what is happening in these remote regions of PNG. And when will any government acknowledge the contribution by these Churches? And when will we hear about some partnership between the State and the Churches?

We ask that this new government appoint a separate Ministry to be called the Ministry of Church and State whose function should be to work closely with the different Churches to ensure that the Churches have access to the government funds and services in their endeavour to spread not only the gospel but also to support them in their other activities like health services and educational institutions like the Divine Word University in Madang, PAU in Port Moresby and the Lutheran University in Lae.

In the above examples, we have made references to Universities, but in the most remote parts of PNG we have various Christian Churches running primary schools and vocational or training centres and these are the kind of Church activities which need the support of government. We are not saying that the government must take over these services. What we are saying is that firstly the government must make a meaningful attempt to acknowledge the presence by the Churches to bring services to the people where there are no government services. And secondly, the government must make some meaningful contribution by way of financial contribution or infrastructure development to ease the burdens faced by these Churches.

However, there is one most important aspect that the government must acknowledge and that is the role the Churches have played in the matter of peaceful co-existence between the people and a sense of moral upbringing. Whilst the government is busy worrying about money and materialism and wealth creation, it is the Churches which are opening the people's eyes to another and a far superior world beyond money and materialism. They are the ones who teach people about morality.

It is the Christian Churches which have made it their business to show the people what Jesus' message of "brotherly love" is all about. It is these Churches which show people what compassion is all about. And it is these Churches which show people what forgiveness is all about. And in their endeavour these Churches live and serve the people of this country without expecting any financial benefits or perks from the government. It is about time we have a government in this country which can make an effort to open a permanent dialogue with the Churches to assist them where they might need assistance.

And looking at the wider world, it seems as if the elements are now rebelling against Man for his wanton cruelty on nature and the environment. Whilst there is drought and famine in Africa, people are dying from heat waves in America and there are floods and earthquakes to contend with. And as if that is not bad enough already, people in places like the Middle East are now up in arms against their governments and calling on them to justify their continued presence and to answer for the cruelty, the suffering and the degradation that they have experienced in the hands of these governments.

When you look at the bigger picture, life has surely taken on a new meaning. It is now as if the universe itself has finally come alive to voice its dissent and in so doing to tear up man made institutions of falsehood and lay bare the human greed for wealth creation and hording and the fallacy by which these institutions have propagated their kind and have kept trodden the human spirit for universal justice. We cannot turn the tide now. We are now entering a new phase in human progression.

For far too long since the Industrial Revolution the common man on the ground has had to bear the brunt of human greed for materialism. In effect Man had traded his very soul for money so that when capitalism took off in Europe, "money" as a medium of exchange developed a soul of its own and it is that very soul which is now being gutted. Finally, the unconscious has become conscious so there is no turning back now. And that long awaited "judgment day" has finally arrived for those who had traded their souls for money and materialism and had kept their fellowmen and women in a state of material poverty. Now the common man has swung the shackles off his or her wrists and has come alive with a new mission for universal justice and in his quest he is guided by an Invisible Hand. God is Great!

ADVERSE HEADLINES MARS SMOOTH OPERATIONS

The allowance issue has become as unfortunate headlines in the News Media in what has otherwise been a generally well coordinated execution of the National Population and Housing Census, 2011.

And the important point here is that, all those engaged in the Conduct of the Census are not denied what is owed to them, not at all but that the payments are delayed by financial processes, the checks and balances which must be in order where there are public funds.

But these are being addressed and the payments will be made.

That's the position of the National Census Office, NSO, in the light of media reports of frustrations and confrontations over allowances, particularly in the Chimbu and Morobe Provinces.

Census Director, Mrs. Hajily Kele, explained that once enumerators have completed their tasks and hand in the questionnaire forms, their work is verified and payments processed.

That takes time.

Mrs. Kele said that understanding has been evident in all the other centres where the conduct of the census has been smooth and orderly.

NSO heaped praise for all those involved and further pointed out that the completion phase of the census which include detailed mop-up operations in all centres have yet to be completed.

Status reports from all the main centres are expected by NSO in Port Moresby in the next couple of days.

In the National Capital District, households which had been missed out or had no-one there during the enumeration week will be re-visited as part of the week long mop-up operation.

Again, heads of households including non-citizens are urged to cooperate with interviewers.

In the meantime, people are reminded to use the Toll Free Phone Numbers listed here if they have any queries or questions.
