Why the present political stalemate?

IT IS not easy to cast blame on any group of politicians for the present state of political affairs.

This is a long story which defies definition and simple categorization, for the simple fact that here we are dealing with human behaviour where the issues are not entirely impersonal.

There is plenty of personality involved, and this is where emotions, if unchecked, can take the better of rationality, thus getting us bogged down in a game of ego warfare.

When you look at it closely, politics is not a science. The suggestion that there is a field of study called "political science" is a misnomer. Just like its cousin, "economics" which is a reflection of the mode of consumption in a given economy, politics is in essence, "a game of chance".

Politics by its very nature is like a game on the poker machine. Anybody can win simply by punching the right key at the right time and for the right amount of bet when the machine has reached its stage for a payout.

And our politicians are like poker machine players. They do not possess any special training in the field of politics. They are not degree holders in politics from a recognized university. What this means, is that anybody can become a politician and for reasons only known to the particular politician himself. Some get into politics to bring benefit to their constituents and there are only a few who can meet this criterion.

Most of them, however, enter politics to make a career out of it, which means they will never resign when the occasion arises. Look at Sir Mekere, for instance. He was a PM at one time and when he lost that position, he ought to have quit politics by resigning, but he never did, and he is still hanging onto his seat in the Port Moresby North West.

And when you assess their performance, you will note in 99.9% cases that it is absolute zero. That does not mean they do not help people. Of course, they help many people to access government funds, public tender for projects and the like, but when you start to enquire as to whom these successful tenderers are, you will note that they are cronies and business associates of these politicians.

In other words, there is a cut there somewhere in the final equation and most of the time it is 10% of the financial cost. And this is the reason you will hear many well informed persons calling our politicians, "Mr Honourable 10%".

One major characteristic of our politicians, is that soon after they are voted into Office, they will forget all about you until in the last 12 months before the National Elections.

Take a look at the works now under way past the Waigani Service Station where the Member for Port

Sabina's Corner

Moresby North West has decided to build concrete paths for people to walk on along the main road leading from the Service Station in the direction of the UPNG.

The shameful part of this nonsense is that facing the traffic is a sign board that reads along the lines that the path construction is 'funded by the Member for Port Moresby North West'.

Bid Deal, Sir Mekere. You ought to be charged under the Organic Law on national Elections for doing an election campaign well before the issue of the writs. Nogat sem bilong yu! Las foapela yia yu mekim wanem long olgeta mani yu wok long kisim bilong ilektret bilong mipela. You ought to get your behind kicked in the elections.

Talking about Mekere, let us see what he is now up to with his unlawful position of the Minister for IPBC. He has kicked out Sir Tjoeng as the Chairman of Air Niugini, and appointed his lieutenant, Garth McIllewain, as the Chairman, and his legal eagle, Greg Sheppard, as a Board Member. There is a rumour doing the rounds in Port Moresby Coffee Shops and Saloon Bars that those fingers are still itching for a slight of hand to amalgamate Air Niugini with Airlines PNG, the doomed airline with a very poor safety record.

Do not forget what happened with PNGBC during his tenure. The people's bank, a mammoth bank, was sold for peanuts to a totally insignificant little bank which had problems attracting customers, and which bank has a market share of less than 5% in real terms. How the hell can Sir Mekere justify his action in getting a small bank to acquire a major bank with assets worth in the hundreds of millions, compared to BSP which had peanuts for assets.

Some unknown people made millions of kina after that stupid amalgamation. And now it looks like he's is up to his same tricks again. He will sell Air Niugini to Airlines PNG for peanuts and Air Niugini will disappear from the books as a national asset and flag carrier. We ask Sir Mekere: Are you not satisfied with what money and material wealth you have acquired over the years you have been a public servant, and then as a member of parliament. If you are not satisfied, why are you not satisfied? And how much money is enough money. We say to Mekere: You need to get yourself checked.

Finally, it is getting more and more obvious that the O'Neill-Namah mob are trying to catch up with lost time when it comes to the issue of power, money and buying political support. And the only reason they are succeeding, is because we, the people, are so gullible that we have sold our souls for free education and just recently free medical consultations and treatment.

This is not to say that O'Neill and Namah are wrong. On the contrary; we say that it is about time somebody in power recognized that education and health should have been free since Independence. And this is where the Grand Chief Sir Michael must be faulted for feeding the well-to-dos, and giving nothing for the general public, the common man in the PMV.

Sir Michael failed and he failed miserably.

He is not leaving anything behind by which the people will celebrate his years in power. He also brought about many wrong laws like the amendments to the constitution, cutting down on the powers of the Ombudsman Commission. He also passed a law stopping landowners from taking mining and petroleum companies to court on environmental damages. This is sickening by itself.

And now, it is a credit to the O'Neill and the Namah mob to repeal the amendment to environmental damages claims.

Finally, we ask that Sir Michael and his mob agree to meet O'Neill and his mob for an open discussion to break this impasse for the benefit of the people at large.

Because we, the people, elected you mob into public office.
