We have sold our souls to the Devil

WE have just witnessed our Chief Justice being arrested at gunpoint by armed thugs calling themselves "members of the Royal Papua New Guinea Constabulary".

"Royal" my foot! Rather strange way of going about things, when a couple of police cars with armed policemen in riot or battle gear stopping the Chief Justice's official car on the public road, chasing his bodyguards away, jumping into his vehicle with firearms and escorting him to the Judges' car park, walking into the court premises whilst fully armed, and waiting for the Chief Justice to come out of his office, only to be forced back into his car and driven off to the police fraud division to be interviewed for 4 hours, arrested, and then taken to the Boroko Lockup, where he was then released on O/R Bail.

If Police Commissioner Kulunga and his policemen are this efficient in their police duties, one wonders why in Port Moresby and elsewhere, people can no longer walk around safely at night except for Highlanders. And if our policemen are as efficient as they have demonstrated in their arrest of the Chief Justice, then one must ask why they cannot apprehend so many rapists, murderers and armed bandits who roam around freely in our towns and cities in this country?

Does the Police Department have lawyers who can advise the Commissioner when to charge a person for perverting the cause of justice? One does not have to be a lawyer to work out that a charge of perverting the cause of justice only applies in a situation where the person charged has, in effect, interfered with the criminal justice system by either destroying evidence, advising witnesses to tell lies, or not to testify, or in some way interfering with the conduct of criminal proceedings.

In the common law countries, of which

PNG is one, having adopted the English Legal System, nobody gets charged for perverting the cause of criminal justice in a strictly civil matter such as that alleged against both the Chief Justice and the Registrar of the National and the Supreme Court. This is total abuse of police powers which in effect amounts to breaches of the Constitution.

This is a matter of public interest because it is all about the policemen who, having sworn oaths to protect persons and property and to uphold the Constitution and the rule of law, have chosen instead to disregard their oaths to seek out the Chief Justice and the Registrar to exercise their powers of arrest and detention. Not for breaches of the criminal justice system; but for political purposes to please their political masters.

If Peter O'Neill and Belden Namah are behind this move by police to arrest the Chief Justice and the Registrar of the National and the Supreme Courts, then we would like to ask these two gentlemen: 'What is wrong with you two? And how mighty and powerful do you two want to be? You both are already the Prime Minister and the Deputy Prime Minister respectively, so why are you not satisfied with that? Why do you two have to go out of your way to flex your muscles further? And what end would that serve? Is this simply an exercise to service your egos? And what is the justification for going to arrest the Chief Justice while fully armed with high powered guns? Was there any suspicion that the Chief Justice might be fully armed as well?

Either rightly or wrongly, you guys are now in power in this country. And rightly or wrongly, the bulk of people have accepted you as the government of the day.

In effect, with your promises for free education and free health, you have bought and the people at large have sold their very souls to you, so we suggest that you find peace within yourselves to maintain your positions in government until after elections, and if you are successful there, then that would mean another term in government for your mob.

Thus, we suggest that all this nonsense be stopped and that the present mob continue their term of office until the elections and the writs are returned. It is unnecessary to terrorize people simply because they think differently and say things differently. Is that not what democracy is all about?

It is said that democracy is a rule by the majority, but let us add too, that in a responsible democracy, the minority is allowed to air its views or dissention without fear, and it is a sign of matured leadership not only to tolerate the minority but also to afford the minority the forum to air its views.

Is this not the PNG way of doing things by way of public debate? And why should that change simply because Peter O'Neill and Belden Namah are now in power?

Is Papua New Guinea now heading into dictatorship? Over to you O'Neill and Namah!
