An Ali Baba budget for PNG

FIRST things first:
Mr Andrew Trawen is demanding an apology from us...

So, the Electoral Commissioner, Mr Andrew Trawen is not happy with this column suggesting that his office had "carved out a special deal" for Peter O'Neill whereby polling in Yalibu/Pangia started early and finished early with Mr O'Neill being declared the winner.

We will apologize to Mr Trawen and Mr O'Neill if there is any suggestion of foul play such as electoral fraud or commission of any criminal conduct in the way the Commission conducted the polling exercise for Lalibu/Pangia. But there was no insinuation or suggestion to that effect. Our comments were limited to, and based on public outcry, notably by Belden Namah and Powes Parkop, questioning why Lalibu/Pangia was given special treatment.

From that we inferred that the situation, for better or for worse, was favourable for Mr O'Neill. If we are wrong on that account, then we unreservedly apologise to Mr. Trawen for reviewing the circumstances that led to the formation of the current administration. Something all free-minded Papua New Guineans have a right to do. Observe, assess and form opinions on.

Now, getting down to a more recent subject matter, let us look at the national budget.

A massive K13 billion Budget spanning a number of years commencing the year 2013 and going into the years 2015 and maybe 2017 as well. And yet we are told that the present internal money market can only come up with K3 billion to sustain the national government's expenditure program.

So here is a question: Where is the other K10 billion coming from?

If the government is of the opinion that cash will start rolling in with the LNG Production going into full swing, then all we can say is that it will be a rather long wait to see the LNG "dividends" materializing.

Already, the costs for the construction phase has increased into billions of $US dollars. And if this is any indication of what is coming, then let us "hasten slowly" when dreaming about riches from the LNG Project.

From what we hear, the "dividends" from the LNG Project have been diverted to various Swiss Bank Accounts in a scheme involving the loan of $US 2 billion to pay off the State 22% equity in the Project.

We are told that the loan was raised in Dubai, and as security for that loan, the Somare government had put up the 22% equity as security with the effect that all dividends will now be diverted to nominated Swiss Bank Accounts to pay it off along with any associated costs and expenses.

This budget is typically Papua New Guinean in the sense that we are back to living beyond our means; we will spend the money before we earn it, and when we do earn some money, we will be paying for what we have already spent.

We will be reduced to borrowing money simply to pay off our debts. This is a rather sad way of running a country. This is an irresponsible way of performing a public function. The better way is to make people live within their means and not beyond their means.

And when you look around the world you can tell that the economic outlook is rather grim.

The last two years had been taken up with two deviant economies, namely, Greece and Spain, and the austerity measures advocated by the EU are not at all acceptable to the general population in these two countries.

When you read between the lines on commentaries offered to explain what had been happening in these two countries, you will see that the governments had been borrowing money to sustain their national budgets, and in terms of local production, it was a downward trend all the way for many years. As for the people, it is the same story.

They had been living on the fate of their plastic credit cards using 3 or 4 cards to borrow from one card to pay the other. And this, a daily occurrence.

Thus, if you look at this year's budget seriously, you will note that the financial system in this country cannot accommodate such a massive budget, especially when that kind of money is not readily available in the country. What is more frightening is that it is a deficit budget, suggesting a deficit of some K2 billion. Realistically, the deficit will peak at about K7 billion. And what is the story about our ability to service our loan commitments? We are led to believe that this budget has made far too many false assumptions to create a rosy picture, but the economic reality is not there to sustain it. Obviously, they already have in mind a supplementary budget, so let us wait to hear what they will be telling us.

And it now seems that there is consensus on a grace period of 30 months before a motion of no confidence is possible. That is not too bad an idea.

When you look at what happened with the previous scenario of holding members to their decision to support a government of their choice under the Organic Law on Political Parties and Candidates, it was the O'Neill mob who rushed to the Supreme Court to declare certain provisions of that law unconstitutional.

Had we left that intact, O'Neill would not have his full term of 5 years intact. He destabilized the scenario and now walked straight into it. That would serve him right.
