No Doomsday in the world, but in PNG, it's an everyday event

Nobody seems to remember any of the old traffic rules. And taxis and buses in particular are the worst offenders. They will pull out into the oncoming traffic without a pause and if you want to be in the wrong, all you have to do is to be there in the wrong place and at the wrong time. And if you happen to hit a taxi or a bus, God Help you!

SO nothing happened on the 21st or the 23rd December, 2012.

There was no polar shift, resulting in the world being sent into total darkness and all electronic equipment being rendered obsolete, thus sending airplanes, spy planes and satellites falling from the sky and crashing to the ground.

Common sense tells us that total destruction of any system does not take place overnight, and in a vacuum, as it were. Usually, when it does occur, it is the accumulated result of wear and tear or the breakdown of a necessary link in the performance function of a given component in the whole scheme of things.

It is our view that Papua New Guinea is now under strain from some 40 years of wear and tear after Independence.

The forefathers of Independence and subsequent governments in this country led it blindfolded with no forethought as to how the country would accommodate the modern day pressures of a people walking out of their caves into the sunlight and for the first time witnessing freedom and seeing the wide and open world of materialism.

Different people come from different cultural backgrounds. Take the Tolai, the Sepik or the Milne Bay guy, for instance. In each of these provinces, the population is well-settled, the land boundaries are defined, and the cultural setting is set and in place.

You compare this to a Highlander, and the difference is obvious.

The Highlander gives the impression that he functions solely by instincts so that his immediate reaction to any situation is confrontation. It is as if he can smell immediate danger, thus all his survival instincts are immediately put to play. And he puts to use the belief that the best form of defence under any circumstances is attack. And whether he was right or wrong, is totally irrelevant.

Thus, we have different people from different cultural backgrounds going about their own individual lives attempting to survive under very trying conditions. Take driving in Port Moresby, for instance. You do not have to make a mistake to end up with your car colliding against another person's car. It is a nightmare.

Nobody seems to remember any of the old traffic rules. And taxis and buses in particular are the worst offenders. They will pull out into the oncoming traffic without a pause and if you want to be in the wrong, all you have to do is to be there in the wrong place and at the wrong time. And if you happen to hit a taxi or a bus, God Help you!

The above scenario is at best, a crude definition of a rather complex setting that characterizes life and living in Port Moresby. It is not, by any means, an attempt to single out a highlander as a troublemaker.

The whole purpose for which we highlighted the above is to bring home the message that due to our different cultural upbringing, we are bound to find ourselves confronting a fellow Papua New Guinean from another background whose manner of behaviour will be totally different from ours. And the wider question is: How does one behave under such circumstances?

We suggest that a course in psychology called, "Psychology and Character Building" be taught in Grades 11 and 12 as a compulsory subject.

And at the lower level commencing Grades 6 to Grades 9 and 10, we introduce a subject under the heading "Life Guidance" and teach the basics about rights and wrong and correct behaviour both in private and public lives. Hopefully, this would give our young people the necessary moral grounding to partake in the life of Papua New Guinea as social beings, aware of both their individual rights and at the same time, their social obligations as members of a given wider community.

The major problem with modern life is that it is highly individualistic, so that the family starts with the nucleus family and ends there, whereas for us Papua New Guineans, we have never had a solely individualistic existence as a people or groups of people. Whilst our individual roles were highly recognized and cultured by our individual societies, our essence as individuals was the essence of the wider society in which we were brought up so that when we left our villages to join a wider community, we walked out as "members" of a given society to join a wider society and not as individuals.

Therefore, whatever might be the setting where we might find ourselves in, in modern Papua New Guinea, there are common grounds upon which we can build a solid setting as a country of people who can, at that critical level, respect each other, appreciate each other's different upbringings, and yet strive for the common good because it is in that state of grace that the goodness in man/woman will flower to bring forth that essence of goodness and godly living.

To aspire towards that end, we have to start doing the necessary ground work by clearing any debris and uprooting any underlying roots or tree trunks, exposing that to sunlight and allowing that to burn to ashes and then proceed with planting new seeds, culturing it and allowing it to grow into fruition.

It is by doing small things step by step, and one at a time, that we can master the art of accomplishing things big or small.

Take this to the level of the National Government and you can tell that if Papua New Guinea were a ship or a barge we would not be able to float, let alone sail the oceans.

To start with, is the immense size of the institution of State and the machinery of government. The machinery is far too big and cumbersome and the guys in the engine room do not have a clue how the machine is supposed to work. Thus, right now the main function of government is to keep the stagnant machinery housed and catered for, with the necessary oil and grease and whatever it takes. The whole thing is now like an Egyptian mummy which no longer has life as we know it, but it pays nevertheless those looking after the mummy to ensure that their roles are appreciated and paid for in kind.

The second problem with the size of our machinery of government, is that there is no necessary linkage from one component to that other, so that the system is unable to kick into action as a whole. And with that, nobody appears to have a conceptual view of what a state government should look like, and how it is supposed to function as a modern legal entity. For us Papua New Guineans, the whole thing is now like an expensive toy that we do not know how to operate.

Thus, we must now ask ourselves a single question: Is there any particular reason why the system does not function and cannot function? And is there any way we can make it work?

KOMENTRI

Ol arapela i lukim yumi olsem wanem?

WANTAIM nupela yia, mipela i lukim moa tok glasim long nem bilong yumi olsem kantri.

Las wik, bikpela tok pait i kamap namel long gavman na oposisen, long kamap bilong wanpela balus, we oposisen i tok i nogat tok orait long pundaun long kantri.

Dispela balus, em gavman na Praim Minista, Peter O'Neill i tok pinis olsem wok painimaut long en, i kiarim ron bilong balus i kam long graun bilong mipela.

Tasol as long dispela balus i kam pundaun, em planti manmeri i paul long en yet.

I gat sampela paulim tok i wok kamap long nius bilong raun bilong dispela balus.

Las yia, bikpela pairap tru i kamap long maus bilong memba bilong Vanimo Grin, na Oposisen Lida Belden Namah, long ron bilong falkon jet balus long go kam long Indonesia na sut tok olsem ol i kisim wanpela man Indonesia i wok long painim long sasim.

Praim Minista O'Neill long dispela taim, i bin daunim ol sut tok tu olsem paul pasin i kamap long dispela ron bilong balus.

Dispela kain pasin bilong ol ausait manmeri na kantri, i save mekim long yumi, i mas i gat as long en.

Sapos ol i biahainim olgeta askim bilong ol loa, na sapos yumi gat gutpela nem long intanesenel wok na pilai graun, watpo bai yumi wok long kisim ol kain hevi olsem yet.

Ol lain manmeri i go kam long balus bilong ol yet, ol biknem man nogut, na man i gat paul toktok na nem long ol arapela kantri.

Nau yumi kisim pinis ol pablik toktok long ron bilong dispela balus, na sapos ol i brukim loa o nogat.

Tasol toktok i stap hait yet, em long husat tru ol lain lida bilong yumi, i bin stap long bungim ol dispela lain, wanem kain wok ol i gat wantaim ol kain hait lain olsem, na watpo, ol i no mekim long ples kliia bai yumi olgeta i lukim?

Olgeta dispela samting, i sindaun long mak bilong nem yumi gat long en.

Long taim yumi bin bungim bikpela pulim-taitim pastaim long nesanel ileksen i bin kamap, planti arapela kantri na lida long wol i bin tok olsem bai yumi bagarap.

Tasol nogat. Yumi sanap strong.
