Are vaccines only for children?

There was a time when small pox was a leading cause of death and many children became paralyzed due to polio. But today the successful immunization program has eradicated small pox and polio is now on the way of eradication. Immunization is a process, which prevent one from contracting the deadly infectious diseases through vaccination.

When we talk about vaccines, we mainly think it is for children under immunization program, which mainly covers diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, hepatitis B, hemophylus influenza, measles and pneumococcal pneumonia, nevertheless it is also important for adults to consider the benefits of vaccine. Firstly, many new vaccines have included in routine vaccination schedule, which were not before. So many adults are not immunized against those diseases during their childhood. In addition to personal protection, high rates of vaccination help protect those around us who cannot be immunized for health reasons such as illness, old age, or allergy. This principle is known as herd immunity, or community immunity. Secondly, in the era of globalization people travel from one part to another. If one traveling to an area with a large number of cases of the diseases that can be prevented by vaccine, travellers are recommended to be vaccinated. Thirdly, specific groups such as the health care providers are more exposed to diseases. They should be considered seriously to be vaccinated against the deadly diseases.

Vaccines against hepatitis B virus and human papilloma virus

(HPV) are two major examples that should be considered seriously among adults. Hepatitis B virus cause acute and chronic hepatitis that later might progress to liver failure. Human papilloma virus (HPV) causes deadly cervical cancer among the women. Cervical cancer ranks as the first leading cause of female cancer deaths in Papua New Guinea. These two diseases are not only deadly but also family of the patient experiences a great catastrophic cost for their treatment.

It is good news that already Hepatitis B vaccine is included in the routine immunization in PNG. In 2013 government launched the administration of Hepatitis B vaccine to all cadres of the health workers in the country. The HPV vaccination program started recently as pilot in the National Capital District in selected primary schools, for 20,000 girls.

The recommended schedule for the hepatitis B vaccine is to receive 3 doses. Two doses of HPV vaccine are enough if given to 11 to 12-year-olds to protect against cancers caused by HPV infections. Teens and young adults, who start the series later, at ages 15 through 26 years, should receive three doses of HPV vaccine.

Like Hepatitis B, hepatitis C virus is equally dangerous for human life. However unlike hepatitis B, vaccine is not available for Hepatitis C virus. Still research is going on for development of effective vaccine against Tuberculosis, HIV, rotavirus and malaria. An experimental Ebola vaccine was found highly protective against the deadly virus. We win over many diseases through vaccination nonetheless more challenges need to concur.

Vaccine saves life in a cost effective way. World Health Organization (WHO) celebrates 24-30th April as world immunization week with the aim to raise awareness about the importance of vaccine throughout the life. In PNG immunization coverage is still around 60-65%. So every sector of health including public and private sector should come forward. Along with public health sector private health care providers like Pacific International Hospital (PIH) may play a major role in raising awareness and improving vaccination coverage.

BANK OF PAPUA NEW GUINEA

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLIC WARNING ON: CIRCULATION OF PAPER BANKNOTES

The public is reminded that Paper Banknotes (K2, K5, K10, K20, K50 and K100) have ceased to be legal tender and are not acceptable to be used as money for any transactions. Only Polymer (plastic) Banknotes are legal tender and acceptable to be used.

When the Paper Banknotes were withdrawn as money (legal tender), the uncirculated stocks were sold to an overseas recycler. The Bank of Papua New Guinea has evidence that some of these Paper Banknotes are returning to Papua New Guinea through various agents who are attempting to exchange them for Polymer Banknotes. Large quantities of these Paper Banknotes are believed to be coming through from Asia.

The Public is advised to check the Serial Numbers at the bottom of the Banknotes. If you receive or are holding any Banknote with serial numbers that fall within the range of serial numbers indicated below, they are NOT Legal Tender/Money and cannot be used.

Denomination	Prefix	Serial numbers		Examples
		Low	High
